Handwritten text at the bottom of the page, possibly a signature or date, which is mostly illegible due to fading and damage.

[Faint, mostly illegible handwritten text on aged, stained paper with several holes and tears.]

aus St. Blasien - 11

Handwritten text in a historical script, likely a Latin or German manuscript, showing significant damage and wear. The text is mostly illegible due to fading and the condition of the parchment.
