Rückdeckel

A close-up photograph of the front cover of an antique book. The cover is made of a dark brown, heavily textured material, likely vellum or leather, which is severely damaged. There are numerous large, irregular holes and areas where the surface layer has been completely removed, revealing a lighter, fibrous material underneath. Three metal fasteners, possibly brass or iron, are visible, attached to the cover at different points. The edges of the cover are frayed and worn, particularly along the spine area. In the bottom right corner, there is some handwritten text that appears to read "restauriert Mit 1897 III".
