The systems are arranged in a grid-like fashion, with ten systems across the page. Each system typically consists of a staff with notes and a line of rhythmic or performance markings below it. The markings include various symbols such as numbers, letters, and symbols resembling musical notes or rests.

The page is framed by an ornate, repeating decorative border on the top, bottom, and sides. The paper shows signs of age, including some staining and wear at the edges.
