

Badische Landesbibliothek Karlsruhe

Digitale Sammlung der Badischen Landesbibliothek Karlsruhe

A Treatise of Specters

Bromhall, Thomas

[S.l.], 1658

The Table to the Second Book, being of Oracles, Prophecies, & c.

urn:nbn:de:bsz:31-96270

THE TABLE.

The Devil teacheth a Conjurer to shoot darts at a crucifix, 415 A Hermophrodite a witch attached, discovers the conjuration, conventicles, and diabolical acts of Witches, 416 A Witch at Laodunum who debilitated, and screwed men awry, and destroyed beasts and fruit, 417	A Conjurer in the sight of the people flying up towards Heaven, snatch'd his wife with him, laying hold on him, and a Maid also who stood by them, to the great wonder of the amazed people, who beheld them wavering in the Ay, 418
---	--

The Table to the Second Book, being of Oracles, Prophecies, &c.

The severall heads are to be found by the figures in the Margin.

The counsel which Telephus receives from the Oracle at Delphos for cure of his wound, 1 Graesus King of the Lydians consults the Oracle at Delphos, for the cure of his son being dumb. 2 The Minyæ, the Plague raging upon man and beast, consult the Oracle. 3 Atheniensis son of Craterus King of the Persians, consulting the Oracle, was told, That he should kill his own father, 4 Oedipus kills his father according to the prediction of the Oracle. 5 The strange death of Eumelus King of the Bosphorean Cymarians, 6 Cyrus King of the Persians, consults Orpheus his head at Lesbos, 7 Polycrates the Samian Tyrant consults the Oracle at Delphos, 8 Great slaughter to happen revealed to Julius Cæsar, by evident and wonderful Prodigies. 9 Titus the Emperour his death foretold by the Oracle. 10 Mauricianus the son of Justinianus the Emperour being slain by the Goths, the Oracle was fulfilled, 11	Manuel Comnenus after he had reigned 38 years excepting 3 moneths, hoping to prolong his life, put himself into Monastical habit. 12 Polycrates the Theban consults the Oracle at Delphos for the finding of treasure, 13 Plameticus encouraged by the Oracle, gains the King of Egypt, 14 Manuel Comnenus Emperour, nameth his son Alexius, in observance of the Oracles doubtful speech. 15 Boetia being spoyled, those of that Countrey who escaped, run to the Oracle, 16 The Teucricretensians seek themselves new habitations, by the advice of the Oracle, 17 The Phrygians carried by Æneas their Captain into the Lawrel field, were not willing to go any further, but hearkned to the Oracle, 18 The prediction of the Oracle at Delphos to the Lacedemonians, 19 Codrus King of the Athenians, in observance of the Oracle, voluntarily sacrificed himself for the safety of his people. 20 The
---	---

THE TABLE.

The Oracle predicteth the overthrow of the Athenians by the Persians,	21	A Shepherd, laid down by Orpheus his Tomb, falling asleep, chants forth Orpheus his verses in a sweet tone,	43
Valerius Torquatus swallowed up by the ground, in which place an Altar is built according to the advice of the Oracle,	22	The Scythian Islanders send the tenth of their treasures they get out of the silver and gold Mines, yearly to Apollo at Delphos,	44
In the Cimbrick warr the goddess, mother of great Idæa, declared victory to the Romans,	23	An equivocal Oracle given to the Messanians,	45
The Oracle at Delphos declares victory to the Romans against the Vientians,	24	The answer of the Oracle at Delphos to the Phocenses,	46
The Dorienſes obeying the command of the Oracle, got Elea,	25	The Lacedemonians consult Pythia,	47
The Oracle's advice to the Lacedemonians, how to overcome the Tegeans,	26	Cleomenes King of the Spartans, consults the Oracle at Delphos,	48
An Oracle given out in the time of Tiberius Emperour of Rome,	27	Philomelus having taken the Delphick Oracle compels Pythia to tell him somewhat of future events,	49
The Devil speaketh in the Idol of Zemus,	28	The Oracle's answer to Cræſus at Delphos,	50
An Oracle given to the Ancestors of Sardanapalus,	29	Arceſilaus being driven from his Kingdom, sent to Delphos, to consult the Oracle,	51
An Oracle given to the Poet Heſiod.	30	Nero the Emperour, warned by Mathematicians, that the ruine of the Empire was portended by the Stars.	52
Epaminondas his charge from the Oracle at Delphos.	31	Xerxes the son of Darius finds an Urn,	53
The Oracle given to Cambyses the Persian King.	32	Silvester the Pope reported to have obtained the Popedome by evils works,	54
Pythia predicteth the death of Philip King of Macedon,	33	whas encouragement the Æginetians received by the Oracle at Delphos to warr,	55
The doubtful Oracle given him at Delphos,	34	The wisdom of the Persian Magies,	56
Æſcylus the Athenian tragick Poet, his death foretold by the Oracle.	35	An huge beard groweth upon the chin of the Priest of Minerva at Pedesentia, upon a sudden, immediately before a diverse fortune seizeth upon the people,	57
Daphidas the Sophister Ironically consults the Oracle at Delphos.	36	Beleſes a Chaldean encourageth Arabes General of the Medes, to invade the Babylonians,	58
Dionysius ſenior, Tyrant of Syracuſa, acted a Tragedy to the Athenians in their Bachanalian feaſts.	37	Thales the Mileſian discovers the plenty one year, and ſcarcity another, by the riſing of the ſeven Stars,	59
Fatal neceſſity unavoidable,	38	Bœotius the ſon of a common cryer, his fortune told by a Chaldean,	60
Hannibal the famous Carthaginian Captain, his death predicted by the Oracle.	39
Appius Claudius conſults the Oracle,	40
The Antianæan Oracles their advice to C. Caligula,	41
Parthonius foretold by the Oracle to ſucceed in the Empire,	42

The

THE TABLE.

The birth-day of the Emperour Augustus, observed,	61	An Astrologer foretells Rodolphus the Haspurgenian Earl his being Emperour,	78
Scribonius the Mathematician,	62	The Mathematicians predicted Sfortia his high Empire,	79
Tiberius Caesar makes use of Thrasillus, a cunning Chaldean,	63	Braccius the Montenensian Duke, seeing the body of his Enemy Sfortia drowned, praised him with exquisite Encomiums,	80
Claudius the Emperour predicteth the time of his own death,	64	Henry a Bohemian an Astronomer, his predictions,	81
An Astronomer foretold Nero his being Emperour, and his killing his Mother at the time of his birth,	65	Basil a Southsayer foretells the death of Alexander Medices Duke of Florence,	82
Alcletario a Mathematician, foretelleth his own death.	66	John Liechtenberg his prediction,	83
Domitian the Emperour, superstitiously given to Mathematical predictions,	67	The tenth day of September fatal to Peter Alois,	84
Hadrian the Emperour, an excellent Astronomer,	68	Brazen tables wherein was engraven a prediction, That the Grecians were to overcome the Persians,	85
Septimius Severus Pertinax a skilfull Mathematician,	69	A wonderful thing in the second Carthaginian war,	86
A Midwife of Constantinople at the birth of Ablabius, foretells his being Prætor,	70	Verses found in a table of stone, when the walls of Chalcedon were made equal with the ground,	87
Two Jews, Astrologers, promise Zira Prince of the Arabians Empire, and long life, if he would demolish the Christian Temples and Images of Saints,	71	A table of stone found in the bank of the River Scirtus, with Hierogliphical Egyptian letters written on it,	88
The advice of John, an Astronomer and Magitian to Lucapenus the Roman Emperour,	72	Chaldeans foretell Alexander's danger if he went to Babylon,	89
Nicolas son to Guido Earl of Patavia, predicted perdition to his Coantrey, by Jambonus Andreas, an Astrologian,	73	what Aretas King of the Persians gathered by Southsayings,	90
Guido Bonatus foretold the Earl of Mountferrat, that he should receive a wound in his Hip, by a salley which he should make the day before the Calends of May,	74	Apollonius an Egyptian foretold the death of Caius Caligula the Emperour,	91
Antiochus Tibertus foretells Guidon, that he should be killed by his intimate friend, upon suspicion of Infidelity,	75	Apollonius foretold Cilix his slaughter,	92
Petrus Leonius, a dextrous Astronomer, discovered, by his Art, that sudden death was portended to him by water,	76	Larginus Proclus foretells the death of Domitian the Emperour,	93
Predictions by Bartholomeus Coclecles, an excellent Physiognomist,	77	The death of Constance discovered by a Souldier, observing the intrals of beasts and birds.	94
		Alexander Severus Emperour, as firing to begin his speech to his Souldiers with a lucky word, Fortune brought him one clean contrary.	95
		A woman meeting the two Maximines in the Market-place, falls dead,	96

THE TABLE.

Dioclesian his being Emperour is fore- told by a woman,	97	should conquer the name of the Atheni- ans.	118
Marian a most wise Earl his predictions,	98	Philumena a Soothsaying maid,	119
A Soothsayers prediction to Agilulph Duke of the City Taurina,	99	Saint Augustine reports of Algibertus, that he knew all secrets,	120
Antonine his prediction to his Schollers,	100	Basilacius a man of an unaccustomed life a fortune-teller.	121
Remex a Rhodian, his prediction,	101	Merlin begotten by a spirit called Incu- bus, and a Brittish Noblewoman, fore- told many things to come,	122
An old Proverb in Carthage,	102	An unclean spirit having possessed Jaco- ba, speaks in her,	123
Spartan guests ravish the daughters of Scedalus.	103	A notable Impostor of Peter Brabantius who as oft as he pleased spoke from the bottome of his belly without moving his lips.	124
The Speech of a Magitian of Egypt to An- thonic,	104	Amphiarus a soothsayer, by the gaping of the earth swallowed up, with his Cha- riot and Horses,	125
The Roman Captains forbid to go with weapons beyond Ctesiphon, by reason of an ancient Prophecie,	105	Actius Navius a shepheard boy, a sooth- sayer,	126
Sybill her Prophecie of the destruction of Antichrist,	106	Posthumus the Sooth-sayer,	127
The god Ammon answereth the Temen- tes,	107	Spurina foretells to Julius Caesar his danger of being killed.	128
Sybill foretells the warlike glory of the Macedons,	108	A German Prophecieth to Agrippa then prisoner, his deliverances and fu- ture prosperity,	129
A Child having teeth speaketh the same day in which he is born.	109	The Adelitrans and Almogonens di- vine from the flying of Birds, and meet- ing of wild beasts,	130
A Child within twenty four hours of its birth spoke and made signs with its hands,	110	Alexander the Emperour given to riot and Magick,	131
A Syrian seeing a Ship running with full sayles, foretold it should be sunk,	111	Simeon Duke of the Bulgarians.	132
Phericides foretold an earthquake with- in three dayes,	112	An Idoll built by Mahomet, whereunto a legion of Devils are engaged by Ma- gick, to which Christians cannot come without danger,	133
The answer which the Oracle at Delphos gave to Glaucus enquiring counsell concerning unjustly deteyned money,	113	The manner how the Biarmians, Bothy- nians, Finlanders, divine,	134
Alphonfus King of Arragon besieging Neopolis, had the taking thereof fore- told him by a man of a reverend aspect,	114	How Jannes the master of Theophilus the Emperour, foretold things to come,	135
Women who guessed at things to come, by whirl-pools and noyse of waters,	115	Apollonius the Emperour slain at Rome by Stephen according as Apollonius spoke in an extasy at the instant of his death at Ephesus.	136
Abaris of Scuthias a divine of the Hy- berborcans,	116	Stephen the Hagio-Christophorite, knew from the Devill by Sethus a Ma- gitian, that destruction hanged over the
Ædelsius the son of Chrysanthus had a body so nimble that it exceeded humane belief.	117
Agias divined unto Lysander that he

THE TABLE.

the head of Andronicus Comnenus, 137 William King of the Romans dying unfortunately and suddenly, was buried in a Tomb in Frisia, which had stood long beautified, without any man buried, because it was Prophesied that a King of the Romans should be laid therein, 138 Two brothers not knowing one another, kill each other as a soothsayer foretold them, 139 Sigthune King of Swethland as he sacrificed, understood that by fatall necessity, he was to die by Gold, 140 Two Snakes found in the bed of Sempromius Gracchus, 141 The Soothsayers answer to Marcellinus, 142 Agigulph a Soothsayer, counsells Antharis King of the Longobards, to take Tolinda the Virgin to wife, 143 Batabaces Priest of the great mother Idea, fore-shew's a great victory to the people of Rome, 144 A Madmuu from Bellona, shews to L. Sylla, that he should obtain the palm of conquest, 145 The builders of Ephesus consult the Oracle for direction where to erect it, 146 The Locrians wooden Dog, 147 Melanthus a banished man from his country, received an Oracle, 148 The Oracle Apollo Pythius directs Pausanias where to build Byzantium, 149 A Sow that had Pigs, made a divination to the Trojans of building a City, 150 Tarquinius Superbus his founding the Temple of Jupiter, Iuno, and Minerva, 151 Alexander a Priest of Minerva, Prophesies to Alexander that he shall be a Conquerour, 152 The interpretation of a divination by Calchas a Prophet, 153 Aristander the diviner, his interpretation of a Crow's flying when Alexander the Great assaulted Gaza. 154	A Magpy sits on the head of Coelius Pontius declaring the Law, 155 At Alexander the great his expedition into Asia, a Cyprus Tree sweateth, 156 The Siracusians besieged, perform solemn rights to Hercules. 157 Prodigies appear when Lucius Sylla went with an army to the Sociall war, 158 The Hilt of P. Scipio Africanus his Sword springs with blood, 159 A Ram with one Horn sprung out of the middle of his forehead, brought to Pericles. 160 The Chaldean Prophets foretel the translation of the Persian Empire to the Macedonians. 161 The Buckler of Maximinus the father set on fire by the Sun, and his spear struck by a Thunderbolt, 162 A Martin flying amongst a Navy of Ships, lighted upon the very top of the Stern of the Ship wherein Dion was, 163 A Eagle snatcheth a spear from one of the guard of Dion wherewith sublimely mounting, at length she let it fall into the deep, 164 The suburbs of Sardis filled with Snakes, which the Horse of Croesus King of the Lydians going to Graesse, devours, 165 The Sacrifices offered by Dionysius the younger to the gods, portend great prodigies, 166 Tarquinius Superbus his dream, 167 Strange sights appear to Hippocrates the most valiant Duke of Athens, 168 Statues sweat, with divers other formidable prodigies, 169 The prodigiom return of a child almost born, to his Mothers belly again, 170 Archelaus Tetrarch of Judæa and Idumea, his dream, 171 The Ensign of Barnabas, Lieutenant-Governour, shattered with a Thunderbolt. 172
--	--

THE TABLE.

Zeno the Emperour flees to a little Castle upon an Hill called Constantinople, 173 Frederick the second told by one who had a familiar spirit, That he should die at the Florentine field, 174 Adelheida, a Lady of the noble blood of the Tuscans, of so high a wit, by observing the Heavens and Stars, that she foresaw things to come, 175 A fortune-teller's prediction to Machabæus King of the Scots, 176 Antonius of Leva animates Charls the fifth, Emperour, to war upon France, 177 A Soothsayer's prediction to Amilcarus Duke of the Carthaginians, 178 The Velitri consult an Oracle, 179	Hadrianus Corneranus Cardinal, conceives hope of obtaining the Papacy by the Oracle of a Fortune-telling woman, 180 Demophon's advice to Alexander, given from his observations in Augury, 181 A certain Syrian whose name was Eunus, who delighted in Magical enchantments, 182 Megistas Arcanas his Prophecy, 183 Domitian the Emperour commands Allectario to be burnt, and Larginus Proclus to be hang'd, for that they foretold the day of his death, 184 Perusinus the greatest Magitian of all Italy, 185
--	--

The Table of Dreams, Visions, Revelations, &c.

The severall heads are to be found by the figures in the Margin.

Jupiter sendeth a dream to Agamemnon, 1 Cyrus King of Persia his dream, 2 Socrates foresaw in his dreams, that his Scholler Plato would be an excellent Orator and Philosopher, 3 Hippocrates his dream, 4 Alexander descended from Hercules by Catinus, and from Æacus on his Mothers side, by Neoprolemus; his dream, 5 Sophocles his dream, 6 Æneas Seneca his dream, the night after he undertook the Tutorship of Seneca, 7 Fudemus a Cyprian his dream, 8 Aspatia the daughter of Hermotimus, her dream, 9 The Mother of a certain Souldier, her dream, 10 Æsculapius of Athens his prescription	by Oracle to Plutarch an Athenian, 11 Themistocles his Vision, 12 Lucullus going to Hellespont, his Vision, 13 Marcorius, a Physitian of Augustus Cæsar, his dream, 14 Laodice the wife of Seleucus, her dream, 15 Publius Decius, Tribune of the Roman Souldiers, his dream, 16 Gracchus, brother of Tyberius his dream, 17 Calphurnia, wife of Julius Cæsar, her vision predicting his death, 18 Cornelius his foresight of his death, 19 A beholder of Playes, his dream, 20 Great Stortia his dream, 21 Malgepa, an Archer to Galeacius Stortia, his dream, 22 Mark
--	---