

Badische Landesbibliothek Karlsruhe

Digitale Sammlung der Badischen Landesbibliothek Karlsruhe

The young man's book of amusement

Halifax, 1848

Fulminating Bombs

urn:nbn:de:bsz:31-100120

The detonating Candle

Take about a third part of a grain of fulminating silver, and put it into the wick of a candle, which is to be burned by the person you wish to surprise. When the flame reaches the powder, it will immediately explode with a stunning report. Similar tricks may be played by placing the silver in a pair of snuffers, boots, shoes, walking-stick, &c.

To make an artificial Spider, containing Fulminating Silver.

Take about one third of a grain of fulminating silver, and inclose it in a piece of paper or cloth made up in the form of a spider, then place it in a situation where it is likely to be trod upon. The noise will both surprise and amuse.

Fulminating Bombs.

Procure a few glass balls, of about a sixth part of an inch in diameter, and put a third part of a grain of fulminating silver upon a piece of soft paper, then paste the paper round one of the glass balls, and upon treading upon it, or throwing it with force against a stone, it will break and give a report like a musket.

Chemical

It is well known that the name of those of the lady thus paid chemistry be sulphuretted handed round the lady in face! Ever den chemist the cause of further injury rely more on beauty in fut

To Illu

Wet a piece of ether, and the face of the water, and, by gentle vibrations will the fluid to a water must be phorized ether objects (which them luminous