The illustration is a monochromatic, woodcut-style print in a reddish-brown hue. At the top, a range of mountains is depicted with several evergreen trees scattered across their slopes. Below the mountains, a large, rectangular frame contains the title. To the left of the frame, a tall, slender Gothic church spire with a pointed top and a smaller square tower below it stands prominently. The central and lower portions of the image are dominated by a detailed street grid of the city of Freiburg. Several buildings are integrated into the grid: a large, multi-story building with a gabled roof and arched windows on the left; a smaller, square tower with a crenellated top in the center; and another large building with a complex roofline and multiple windows on the right. The overall style is graphic and textured, with fine lines and stippling used for shading and detail.
