REGIUS, Philadelphus (pseudonym). Von Lutherischen wunderzaychenn mit angehencktem bericht, Wye mann götlich vnd teuffelisch mirackel vor ain anderer kennen vnnnd vrtaÿlen soll. Small 4to. 12 leaves. Title within ornamental border composed of four blocks, and two small woodcuts in the text. Modern half vellum.

[Augsburg, Melchior Ramminger, 1524] sFr. 1'200

Rare curious pamphlet against the suffragan bishop of Constance, Melchior Fattlin (1490 to 1548) who had published some 'miraculous signs with which God chastised adherents of Luther'. With wit and eloquence the author rejects Fattlin's assertions, attacks superstition and defends Evangelical doctrine.

The pseudonym 'Philadelphus Regius zu Costentz' remains undisclosed, though all historians of the Reformation at Constance have treated and investigated this important tract, especially A. Voegeli, Jörg Vögeli, Schriften zur Reformation in Konstanz 1519-1538, vol. II/2, p. 1038 ff., who thinks that Ambrosius Blarer is the real author.

A fine copy.
